To find articles and current research about your topic, use articles from journals at the Guelph library website . Search our collection of articles in a journal database where articles from magazines and journals are listed and collected. Look for the 'Get It' button or full-text link to read articles online.

Start Here: Journal indexes – select Agricultural and Food Sciences

http://www.lib.uoguelph.ca/resources/journal_indexes

Agricola: a comprehensive index to agricultural and life sciences information. The primary focus is on the United States but there is international information as well. Subject areas covered include all areas of agriculture, such as plant and animal science, forestry, entomology, soil and water resources, agricultural economics, agricultural engineering, agricultural products, alternative farming practices and food and nutrition.

Biological Sciences: an interdisciplinary database offering abstracts and citations to a wide range of research in biomedicine, biotechnology, zoology and ecology, and some aspects of agriculture and veterinary science.

CABDirect: provides international literature in agriculture, forestry, and allied disciplines, including: animal and crop husbandry, animal and plant breeding, plant protection, genetics, forestry engineering, economics, veterinary medicine, human nutrition and rural development. The abstracts cover articles in 10,000 journals as well as books, theses, conference papers and reports.

Step 4 : Searching the Internet

The term "public websites" refers to sites that can be freely reached through a search engine. Many of the links given above lead you to "invisible web sites" that the library pays for, such as journal databases. Typically, if your professor tells you not to use web sites on an assignment, they are referring to public web sites.

When searching, remember to try alternate words for your topic
